

The Disappearance

The newly settled life of Commander Celia Kelly suffers when a seemingly routine flight out of Nairobi becomes an unlikely catalyst. The Deputy Director of the CIA goes missing in Africa. His bags make the plane and he doesn't. In the meantime, an imposter with an agenda takes another man's seat on that same plane for a free trip into the United States. Husband Tom Kelly becomes a NICS Special Agent looking into Lieutenant Commander Georgie Rounds' death. The two investigations separate Celia and Tom as they both go to work to solve the two mysteries. As the mission begins in Africa, the FBI begins an investigation into the mysterious passenger now somewhere in the United States to determine why he is there and what or who his target is. The FBI, NCIS, Commander Kelly, and the Navy SEALs are set on a collision course. With the help of an old opponent from the Pact, CIA operative William Dixon, they come together only to be shocked by what no one sees coming. Distance tests the Kellys and they must rely on their faith to see them through. Will their relationship survive what they are about to discover?
