

The Martian Child: A Novel about a Single Father Adopting a Son

[Read by Scott Brick] This novel is the basis for the 2007 film from New Line Cinema starring John Cusack, Amanda Peet, and Joan Cusack. Funny, endearing, and at times, heartbreaking, this is a beautifully written testament to fatherhood. --Gerrold, a science fiction writer from California, adopts a son who has been classified as unadoptable due to his violent emotional outbursts resulting from abuse. Another side-effect of his turbulent early years is that he believes himself to be a Martian. Gerrold begins the long, involving work of trying to earn the acceptance of Dennis, a hyperactive eight-year-old who desperately wants a father's love, but is so insecure he feels he must be an alien. Gerrold's recounting of the first two years with Dennis ends with the climax of Dennis running away and waiting in a city park at night for the flying saucers to come and reclaim him. Funny, endearing, and at times, heartbreaking, this is a beautifully written testament to fatherhood. -- This book is semiautobiographical. Gerrold did adopt a son, but he heard about a boy who thought he was a Martian from another adoptive father.
