

Kindertransport

Diane Samuels play about families, secrets and survival takes us to the days of the impending Holocaust. As conditions deteriorated in Germany in the 1930s, many tried in vain to escape. But thanks to a British humanitarian effort, about 10,000 Jewish children from Germany and neighboring countries were relocated to live with families in the United Kingdom, while their parents stayed behind. This passage to freedom became known as Kindertransport. The audio drama stars Jane Kaczmarek and Susan Sullivan, and includes a conversation with Kindertransport survivor Hilda Fogelson. An L.A. Theatre Works full-cast performance featuring: Jane Kaczmarek as Helga Hugo Armstrong as Ratcatcher? Misc. Shannon Lee Clair as Eva Angela Paton as Lil Molly Quinn as Faith Susan Sullivan as Evelyn Directed by Jeanie Hackett. Recorded by L.A. Theatre Works before a live audience.
